3. Key Observations

Education is both the largest area of people reached and the largest area of expenditure, reflecting JRS Romania's core commitment to access to learning for displaced populations.

Emergency Aid represents a significant share of both reach and spend, underlining the continued humanitarian character of operations in Romania.

Women represent nearly two-thirds of all people served, consistent with JRS Romania's gender-responsive programming approach.

The One Proposal project remains the backbone of programming, accounting for the majority of people reached across multiple service categories.

Income diversification is evident across government, Jesuit, multilateral, religious, and private donor streams.

The positive net balance of RON 321,239 indicates sound financial management for the reporting year.
